Don't Want Rate Hike

Don't Want Bate Illie
Other aldermen opposed the tax rate boost, suggesting the deficit be wiped out over a period of years through sales tax and parking meter reserves. They added that the city would get most criticism for the anticipated tax boosts next year that would be due primarily to the recent school construction bond issue.

Names Worth Remembering—Aldermen Who Stood Up For The Public On Bond Sale

Stands taken by individual aldermen are important, because a switch of one or two votes often decides Grantie City council issues. For this reason, it is important that citizens note and remember the names of those who stood up for the public interest in the sale of sewage treatment plant hands.

decides Granite City council issues. For this reason, it is important that citizens note and remember the names of those who stood up for the public interest in the sale of sewage treatment plant bonds.

The roll call of aldermen who defeated private handling of the bonds this week consisted of Sam Whitmer and Edmund Bartosiak of the Second Ward, J. D. Bergfield and Clyde Boyd of the Third Ward, Donald Partney of the Fourth Ward, Casmer Skubish and new Alderman Sandy Pence of the Sixth Ward, Gene Sternberg of the Seventh Ward and Earl Thompson of the Eighth Ward. These nine then voted favorably to seek competitive bids, the surest protection for tarpayers.

The Ward were pinchen in Dalas after he had cast one of the five losing votes for private sale. Paul Rutledge of the Fourth Ward favored competitive bids, the reviews week but was absent Monday night. Also absent was Mrs. Cabrielle Betinec.

The four holding to their preference for non-competitive, non-public disposition of the more than $1 million in city revenue bonds were the two Fifth Ward and Ford Johnson of the Eighth Ward. A third committee, Charles Moetilen of the First Ward and Ford Johnson of the Eighth Ward. A third committee member, William McGee, voted against private sale last week before resigning from the council to accept work in another state. The past record makes it clear that those favoring free and open bond bidding were not acting as puppets of anyone, and were not attempting to destroy the council committee system, at all loor Monday night. We believe the nine who cast decisive votes— Whitmer, Battosiak, Bergfield, Boyd, Partney, Skubish, Pence, Sternberg and Thompson—did so because they were convinced public sale was the best procedure. They are due the thanks of the families throughout Granite City who will retire the treatment plant bonds through quarterly payments. MANNA MAGNET SET 1997.

A. O. Smith—Faith In Separate Auto Frames A Winning Gamble

Excerpts from a speech, printed elsewhere on this page, trace a bold but little known gamble in which Quad-Cityans had much at stake. It involved the way automobiles are constructed, and directly affected the future of the local auto frame manu-soared in popularity to a full 45 % of all cars built in the U. S. in 1962.

Perhaps "gamble" is not the best word, for President L. B. Smith and other A. O. Smith Corp. officials had real confidence that separate frames integral or unitized construction. In which a single metal shell forms both the body and frame. But they could hardly have been blamed if they had joined the supposed "wave of the future," which scarced in popularity to a full 45% of all cars built in the U. S. in 1962.

The courage of their convictions left them as the major holdout against the unitized fad, but they have been proven right. Cars without underframes have slipped to 33 % of the market and are destined to drop further because of recent decisions pact auton.

Because of the extensive research and engineering it had conducted in reaching its conclusions about frames, A. O. Smith is in an ideal position to handle the current production boom and also to keep pace with fast-changing requirements and the increasing variety of auto models and styles.

Net result is that the company has virtually solved its intricate problem of combining rapid growth with financial soundness. And, for communities such as the Quad-Cliuse, there has been not only a continuation but an expansion of business.

Historic Lewis and Clark Park Another Attraction For Tourists—And Residents

Photographs in the Press-Record last week revealed the beauty and serenity of another of the growing list of Quad-City area tourist attractions—the Lewis and Clark Memorial State Park.

Located at the mouth of the Hartford canal in Chouteau township, the park marks the place where two famed explorers, Capt. Meriwether Lewis and William Clark, trained aides in 1803 for their expedition up the Missouri River to the Pacific Ocean.

With picnic and camping facilities, a plaque relating the historical significance of the site, an eye-filling view of the Mississippi-Missouri "marriage of the waters' and the lore of scenic fields and wooded areas, the Lewis and Clark park is yet anoutstanding place to live but an interesting area to visit.
